COOL WEATHER NEGLIGEE

With the First Hint of Frost Crepe de Chine Boudoir Gowns Make Way for Those of Warmth-Bringing Albatross.

A CHARMING negligee sketched on this page is of blue crepe de chine made with kimono sleeves. It is trimmed with point d'esprit and embroidered in front in a flowered design. Two rows of shirring form the Empire waist line so pretty in a negligee. Price $12.50.

A Simple Negligee. Simplicity is the keynote of the other negligee sketched on this page. It is of pink crepe de chine, made from two perfectly straight pieces which are joined under the arms and finished at sides and front by hand scalloping. On both sides of the centre front it is nicely embroidered. Price, $12.50. An attractive boudoir cap of net and voile is finished by a net pleating edged with Valenciennes lace. It is trimmed by a twist of pink ribbon and a ribbon rose showing the yellow satin.

is of fine muslin finished by an embroidered ruffle. It is well made and exceedingly durable.

Crepe de Chine Serviceable.

Crepe de chine petticoats are by far the best for evening, for the reason that they are easily washed and are made up most attractively. An exceedingly attractive one is trimmed with a band of shadow lace, finished by a pleated net flounce. This model may be had in all colors for $4.75.

A camisole that, though simple, would look well under a fine waist or dress is of Brussels net trimmed with two deep tucks and a band of lace heading through which ribbon is run. Ribbon also forms the shoulder straps. Price $1.85.

Silk-Lined Albatross Kimono.

Practical kimonos for the cool autumn months are those of albatross. A pretty pink one nicely lined with white China silk is shirred slightly in the back. The cuffs and front of the kimono are trimmed with broad bands of white China silk. This style may be had in all colors. Price $12.50.

Shadow Lace Coatee.

A useful house gown is of crepe de chine with a shadow lace coatee, finished at the neck, cuffs and around the edges of the coat with pleated chiffon. The under part or skirt of the gown, of sunray pleating, is slightly cut away in front. Price, $24.75.

Gold Net Over Salmon Colored Satin.

A gown suitable for an older woman is of gold net made over salmon colored satin. The corsage, of gold lace over a foundation of salmon satin, has long net sleeves, finished at the wrist with a double ruffling of net, trimmed by a band of the satin. A high wired collar of the lace flares away from the face in a charming manner. The three-floored skirt of gold lace is finished by a deep crushed garble. Price, $28.75.

After Tennis or Golf

Refreshing Beverages Which the Hostess May Offer Her Guests.

WATCHING the house party gathering under the trees at the tea hour, hot and thirsty from playing tennis or golf, or even lazily from doing nothing, to find the only beverages available cold tea and lemonade, it seemed strange to me that hostesses who display so much originality in the ordering of their dinners should show so little in the concoction of cooling and refreshing

A pretty way to send them upon the lawn or under the pergola would be in a tea wagon, easily rolled about and convenient. It could carry lemons, oranges, a lemon squeezer, ice, soda, syphons, sugar, syrups, Angostura bitters, some liqueurs and brandy, which to the inventive mind of man should suggest drinks—many, various and delicious.

An English drink, said to be very satisfying to a thirsty golfer, is composed of one-third each of Italian vermouth, homemade lemonade and soda water, all well chilled before being put together.

To make good lemonade aise the lemons, carefully take out all the seeds, add a spoonful of sugar for each lemon and pour over them absolutely boiling water. Let cool before putting on the ice and serve without straining.

Ginger beer is very refreshing either alone or with a dash of Angostura and vermouth. A gin sling is good and not very alcoholic. Rub a piece of lemon rind in a glass, pour in a pony of dry gin and fill from a cold syphon or with soda water.

Prepare Three Days Before Serving.

Shrub, an oldtime drink, good in hot weather, calls for six lemons, two quarts of rum, the peel of five oranges, three pounds of sugar and three pints of water. Put the lemon and orange peels, sliced thin, into a wide-mouthed bottle, fill with rum and let stand three days. Then boil the sugar and water, skim and let cool; squeeze and strain the juice of the six lemons into a large pan, add the two quarts of rum strained from the bottle and the syrup. Mix all well together and bottle.

Claret cup is always refreshing. To a bottle of claret add a bottle of soda water, a small glass of brandy, a strip of cucumber rind, the peel of half a lemon, sugar to taste and cracked ice.

Iced Coffee Delicious.

Vienna iced coffee is delicious and easily served, if made in the following way, as it is made in Vienna: One half a pound of sugar and one-half a pound of freshly roasted and finely ground coffee are used. Put the sugar in a porcelain lined saucepan, without water, and tightly cover. Cook to a brown caramel consistency, being very careful not to burn; then add two quarts of hot water; let it come to a boil again; throw in an egg cup of cold water and again boil for ten minutes, with the lid of the saucepan on tight. Stand one side until it is set and cold. Strain into bottles and keep in a cool place. This coffee will keep well two weeks. An after-dinner coffee is enough for a glass of milk. When serving add the coffee to the milk, more sugar if not sweet enough, and put whipped cream on the top of each glass.

New Wall Paper Patterns Show a Return to Large Figures and Chintz Designs

VERY popular at the present moment are the extremely decorative Chinese and Japanese wall papers. The Chinese willow pattern stamped in the china and stencilled on the grass wall covering in blue is very effective in a breakfast room that has white or dark oak fittings and blue draperies.

Chinese Tree Designs.

The same willow pattern comes in gray and white, and is popular for living rooms with mahogany furniture and old blue hangings. The Chinese Chippendale and the Chinese pine tree designs in soft shades of gray are most fascinating. In fact, there is quite a fad just now for papering an entire apartment in one paper, perhaps gray or taupe, in the satin with more stripes, plain chintz or grass cloth, or in the Louis XVI figured velvet papers, all in different shades of the same color. It is a very effective way of decorating, particularly when the woodwork is in white or ivory.

Bird and Flower Papers.

There is a revival of the old-fashioned bird and flower papers. Requisite though expensive are the hand decorated patterns, showing a peacock on a cedar tree among wisteria vines and tall rose trees, the bird and flowers being lifelike. Other designs in the same style are even more brilliant in coloring. These papers, however, should be used with

THE TOWN HOUSE WINDOW BOX

Tiny Ferns and Evergreen Vines, Such as Snowberry and Partridge Berry, Are Foundation of This Easily Constructed Little Garden.

LAST WINTER florists were showing round glass bowls in which were growing masses of little woodland vines starred with scarlet berries. They were like small conservatories, and immediately became popular as indoor ornaments.

Many people have taken similar bowls away with them this summer to mount in camps or country summer places and started little woodland gardens for themselves.

To a nature lover the idea is a delightful one. It is an incentive to one's walk to search for the desirable little plants and vines, and the woods at this season are treasure lands of beauty.

Bed of Pebbles and Moss.

Make a little bed of moss and pebbles in the bottom of the bowl and it will be surprising how soon the plant's root themselves in their new surroundings. The only care involved is in keeping a sufficient amount of moisture in the bowl and covering the top with a glass saucer during the cold weather.

Small Vines the Best.

Naturally, vines of miniature proportions are best, and perhaps the most satisfactory of all is the partridge berry. This little vine, with its white veined leaves and red berries, remains beautiful throughout the winter.

Another evergreen vine is the creeping snowberry, whose shining, china-white berries grow in the angles between the tiny stiff leaves and the stem. It is found creeping closely over rocks and mossy ground, and soon adapts itself to the glass surface of the bowl.

There is also a trailing plant of a shrubby nature called bearberry, which has opaque crimson berries and blunt-tipped leaves, and this, too, is found satisfactory for transplanting.

Developed into "Japanese Garden."

The idea of the bowl has been carried further, and elaborated by one woman who has made for herself a charming window box which she calls her Japanese garden.

For the purpose she has used a glass aquarium of oblong and rather shallow proportions. In it she has arranged with infinite care and skill the accumulation of her summer walks in the woods.

Collected During Her Vacation.

It was while camping in a region of lakes and hills that she gathered her material, selecting only the most diminutive of plants to carry out her idea. From day to day she added to her store, until at the end of the season a large sized market basket was required to bring home her collection.

A layer of pebbles and tufts of thick moss form the foundation of the garden and hold the required moisture. A sprinkling of rich earth are the plants and vines.

Pines Surrounded by Ferns.

A group of small pines, having the appearance of dwarfed Japanese trees, occupy the centre of the little garden. Surrounding the pines are clusters of ferns, and here and there, a shining pyrola or pipissawa, one of the best diminutive evergreen plants for indoor growing. Bits of stone or bark, lichen covered, vary the green, and upward, over the glass sides of the box, tiny vines trail their growth. The whole makes the most delightful of window boxes and is a constant reminder of the summer woods.

Do You Know?

That the American made burnt wood toy blocks are far superior to the paper covered ones that have been so largely imported in former years? The letters and animals are burned in and the blocks are finished with a sanitary waterproof varnish that makes it impossible for the baby to bite or suck anything injurious from them. The colored cubes instead of being papered are painted with oil paint and finished with the same waterproof varnish.

That mock cherry pie is a good one to make when the early fall cranberries are in market? Chop two cups of cranberries and one cup of seeded raisins, add two cups of sugar and one of boiling water, one teaspoonful of vanilla and two teaspoonfuls of flour. Use a good pie crust and bake as usual.

That macaroons may be easily made at home by the following recipe? Mix smoothly a half-pound of almond paste, nine ounces of powdered sugar, beaten whites of three eggs, one small tablespoon of flour and drop by spoonfuls on a shallow agate cake pan unbuttered and bake in a slow oven until delicate brown.

That for all gravies and sauces it is well to have on hand a jar of flour that has been evenly and carefully baked brown in the oven? It colors them much better and lends itself to greater smoothness in the mixing.

HORSE KING DESPITE WAR.

White Plains To Be Society's Mecca This Week, Suspension of the National Making Westchester's Show of Premier Equine Importance.

Many members of society will go up to White Plains to-day for the opening of the annual Westchester County horse show. The exhibition has always been popular with the fashionable world, and this year, with so many having opened their country places or returned to the city earlier than usual, the attendance probably will be unusually large. The entry list is the largest on record, and all the prominent show stables will be represented. The exhibition will last throughout the week, and this will mean much entertaining on the part of those owning estates in the neighborhood. Most of the country homes will be filled with guests for the next few days.

Trotters, harness horses, polo ponies, saddle horses, military mounts, police horses and jumpers will be exhibited. There will be a race for four-in-hands one day and another for tandem. Governor and Mrs. Glynn and Mayor and Mrs. Mitchell will attend some of the sessions.

WOMAN'S PAGE BINDERS

As many of the articles on this page will be continued from day to day, The Tribune, for the convenience of those who may wish to preserve the pages, has had made an original and unusual binder. This binder holds sixty single newspaper pages, and will be sold at 30c, postage prepaid. NOTE—On receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope The Tribune will furnish the names and addresses of the shops from which the articles described on this page are taken.

OLD KING COLE WAS A MERRY OLD SOUL, AND A FLAVOR OF HIS HAPPINESS WILL BE IMPARTED TO THE ROSES UPON WHICH THIS WALL PAPER IS USED. AT THE RIGHT IS THE BOLD BLACK STRIPED PAPER ON A BACKGROUND OF TAN, WHICH MAY BE USED TO GOOD EFFECT IN LARGE ROOMS OR IN HALLS.

Nursery papers are quite fascinating and three new ones are worth remembering. One is the calendar design, showing children playing games suitable and traditional for each month, the months outlined in floral vine diamond pattern. Another has the well known fairy story favorites and a few mythological characters in colors on a white background. Still another is the King Cole paper, and the old story written on the wall paper will give much happiness to the children.

One more paper that has been largely used for nurseries is a floral pattern and is termed the "Little Botanist" paper, for it shows all of the garden flowers and a few wild flowers in their natural coloring and habit of growth, and therefore is instructive as well as decorative. With similar chintz for the wadded window and wall seat for draperies in a room with white woodwork and furniture and with pink and white woven rug it would make a most attractive nursery. Do not cover the whole room with the design, but use as a frieze or dado.

There is a new wainscoting called "Anaglypta" that looks exactly like wood in grain and carving. It is very effective in remodeling a room and is decidedly more economical than woodwork.

Burlap effects and cartridge papers are used often, but the new papers have taken precedence.
